Q3 2026 Strategic Planning Summary

Prepared by: Sarah Chen, VP of Strategy | Classification: Internal | Date: May 12, 2026

Executive Summary

Zava Corp enters Q3 2026 with strong momentum across all business units. Revenue grew 18% year-over-year in Q2, driven by expansion in the enterprise security segment and continued growth in our mid-market SaaS platform. This document outlines our strategic priorities for the upcoming quarter.

Strategic Priorities

1. Enterprise Expansion

Accelerate enterprise deal velocity by reducing average sales cycle from 142 days to under 100 days. Focus on Fortune 500 accounts in financial services and healthcare verticals.

2. Platform Consolidation

Complete the migration of legacy Zava Protect customers to the unified Zava Security Platform by end of Q3. Target: 85% migration rate with less than 2% churn.

3. AI Integration

Launch Zava AI Copilot for automated threat detection and response. Beta program targeting 50 enterprise customers with GA planned for Q4 2026.

4. International Growth

Establish regional offices in Frankfurt and Singapore. Hire 25 sales engineers across EMEA and APAC to support pipeline growth.

5. Partner Ecosystem

Expand the Zava Partner Network to 200+ certified partners. Launch the partner portal with deal registration and co-selling capabilities.

Q3 Financial Targets

Metric	Q2 Actual	Q3 Target
Annual Recurring Revenue	$287M	$325M
Net Revenue Retention	118%	120%
New Logo Acquisition	47	60
Gross Margin	72%	74%
Customer Satisfaction (NPS)	62	65

Key Risks and Mitigations

- Competitive pressure from CrowdStrike and Palo Alto in the enterprise segment. Mitigation: Differentiate on platform consolidation and AI-native capabilities.
- Talent acquisition challenges in EMEA. Mitigation: Partner with regional recruiting firms and offer relocation packages.

- Legacy platform migration delays could impact Q3 churn targets. Mitigation: Dedicated migration team with weekly customer check-ins.

Next Steps

The leadership team will reconvene on June 15, 2026 to review Q3 progress against these targets. Division heads should submit updated pipeline forecasts by May 30, 2026.
